

Project Brief for Well Live by Sarah Becan

I am excited to introduce to you Well Live, a health and wellness company. Imagine Facebook, Reddit, or Twitter combined (creating a familiar surprise), but strictly for health and wellness content. Well Live is a subscription based app where users can share their health experience, connect with community, and receive real evidence-based education, all customized to the individual and their health history. Educational topics include nutrition, fitness, finance, mental health, and spiritual health. Features include pictures, videos, and podcasts for education; a chat room for social support. Organization, user-friendliness, and credibility must be achieved. My vision is not for the Instagram perfect Gym Shark influencer, but for a mother battling cancer, a teenager facing body image issues, or for a family on food stamps. My vision is for Well Live to be the change that is so needed in healthcare, bridge the gap between home, clinic, and hospital.

Objectives:

1. Enhance patient health outcomes
2. Romanticize truthful self- care
3. Increase education and health literacy
4. Engage users in discussions about health and wellness
5. Promote community and engagement
6. Educate on health topics, devices, or services

Implementation:

1. Conduct research about ongoing health needs. (Health People 2030)
2. Conduct focus group to refine features or content.
3. Create an initial assessment upon first time user entry of health history, medications, and goals when signing up.
4. Automate process of using scripts or AI tools to pull evidence based educational content.
5. Design user-friendly interface that encourages engagement and sharing.
6. Check and implement all legal, security, and privacy measures.
